

Press Release, Barracuda Racing Wheels Europe:
Schropp Tuning Audi S6 Avant on Barracuda Virus Rims in matt gunmetal

It's a sad trend: V12 and the already rare V10 engines are disappearing more and more from the model ranges of the car manufacturers. This means, we can decreasingly enjoy vehicles such as the very exotic Audi S6 of the 4F or C6 series: The luxury-class sports car has a 435-hp 5.2-liter V10, which is closely related to the units of the Audi R8 and Lamborghini Gallardo. An Avant specimen of the S6 4F is owned by the specialists from Schropp Tuning and received a refinement there, which also includes a set of Barracuda rims.

The car is rolling on 9x20 inch Barracuda Virus wheels. The rims painted in matt gunmetal are covered with Michelin Pilot Sport 4 S tires in 275/30R20. A KW Variant 3 coilover kit made it possible to lower the Audi appropriately. At its ends, a Mov'it system with 396x36 mm discs and 6-piston calipers ensures excellent braking power. That makes perfect sense, after all, the S6 not only received a Schropp exhaust system, but also an in-house Stage 1 performance upgrade. As a further visual adaptation, the station wagon was rounded off by a striking, multicolored design wrapping by TTStudio.

Breathtaking videos from Barracuda are available on the "Barracuda Racing Wheels" YouTube channel or the "barracuda.wheels" Instagram profile.
