

PRESS RELEASE JMS Fahrzeugteile, BMW M6 Coupe (E63)

The Black Boss: BMW M6 with Hamann parts and 21-inch Schmidt multipiece wheels

In the recent past, BMW has regularly polarized with the design of its vehicles - the newest highlight was undoubtedly the XM presented last winter in the form of a concept car. In retrospect, the styling of the BMW 6 Series of the second model generation E63 is almost harmless. This, together with the 7 Series unveiled two years earlier, both created under the leadership of the then chief designer Chris Bangle, caused no less heated discussions at the time. Nowadays, the 6 Series, which is available as a coupe and convertible, has a few fans, not least in the tuning scene. For example, this example of the M6 series top model was given a clear individualisation by the Swabian specialists from JMS Fahrzeugteile.

The M6 rolls on high-quality rims from Schmidt. These are the three-piece CC Line wheels in 9.5x21 and 10.5x21 inches. The mounted tires have the dimensions 255/30ZR21 and 295/25ZR21. While the beds are polished, the multi-spoke stars have a black finish. So they fit perfectly with the same paintwork of the M6, which also includes the radiator grille kidneys. The built-in KW Variant 3 coilover kit ensures perfect alignment under the fenders. It lowers the body by 45 millimeters at the front and 35 millimeters at the rear.

Speaking of the body: Although this already has a sporty and dynamic appearance in the standard version, it was given an even more striking look by means of a front spoiler lip and a rear spoiler. Both parts come from the range of the BMW specialists at Hamann Motorsport. A Hamann/Supersprint exhaust system ensures an even richer and more sensational sound. Otherwise, the unforgettable, famous five-liter V10 unit with its 507 hp and 520 Nm has remained unchanged.

If you turn to JMS for the procurement of tuning parts, you can also attach and install them if you wish and, if necessary, have the necessary special entries made in the vehicle documents. This is possible both on site at the new company headquarters in Neckartenzlingen or at one of the numerous national and international dealers or partner companies.
